

Corina's Wedding Waltz
Music and lyrics by Glenn Simonelli

The moment arrived so soon.
Lightly I knock on the door.
Here, take my arm.
I'll still keep you from harm
for just a few minutes more.

Memories blur my view.
Is that really you, there,
laughing in the sand box?
Turn. Step, one two three.
How can it be now?
"Daddy, I've met someone."
Time loses its place
once it has passed.

Come dance a waltz with me.
Let the world pause for a beat.
Soon now, I know,
I'll have to let you go.
You've got your own dream to reach.
How sweet to spend this time with you.
Look at your eyes, they're glowing.
Someone has captured your heart I can see.
May your love be complete.

So dance this waltz with me.
Savor a moment or two.
Soon now, they say,
I'll need to turn away.
That won't be so easy to do.
It's true, sometimes we move too fast,
miss what the moment offers.
Someone has pledged you his heart, so rejoice.
I'll still go on loving you, too.

And seeing you tonight,
so beautiful in white,
I've never been prouder of you.
